TOMMIES MOVE TO FRONTIER Patrolling Of Sheung Shui, Taku Ling Areas SITUATION IN SHUMCHUN

More than 1,000 British troops moved up to the frontier yesterday, as another border hamlet fell to the Chinese Communists.

Troops of the 26th Brigade of the 40th Division started patrols on the Sheung Shui area, and men of the 27th Brigade took over the Taku Ling area.

Red Entry Of Swatow Expected

Strong forces of Communists who swarmed across the Fukien border into Kwantung Province, today were reported standing by until final evacuation of Swatow by the Nationalists before making a peaceful entry into the port city, the United Press reports.

Swatow resident who arrived in Hong Kong, said on Monday that the Communists who fled into Kwantung without resistance had by-passed Swatow, reaching Chiehshing, 20 miles west of the coast city.

He said the Nationalist evacuation was still underway and that General Hu Lien's troops were being loaded onto transports for shipment to Taiwan.

It was apparent, he said, that an agreement had been reached for a peaceful handing over of Swatow to the Communists.

Early Surrender

This informant said the city's residents are predicting that the Communist flag will be flying over Swatow by Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

The situation at Amoy has not been resolved, on the basis of noon reports reaching here. These dispatches said that the Nationalists still have a stronghold on both Amoy and Quanzhou but that the Communists were increasing their efforts to capture new landings of junk-borne troops.

These reports indicated that the battle for Amoy was one of the most savage engagements of the civil war. Hand to hand fighting was reported. Big guns of the Communist artillery from the mainland and fire of the Nationalist fortress on the island and from naval gunboats were slugging it out with big shells.

The Communists were said to have consolidated their positions on several of the smaller islands. Further to the West, private reports indicated that the Communists have driven into North Kwangsi, reaching Chienhsien, 40 miles from the South Hunan border.

In Hong Kong, Fukien provincial authorities and other members of the Nationalist Government drafted an appeal to General Tien En-pai to give up the battle for Amoy in the interest of the civilian population of the islands. They argued that there was no strategic value in holding Amoy after the fall of Canton.

General Tien Chuan-shan was reported to be still fighting a rearguard action at Lunging, but the position of his troops there was said to be growing serious.

The Weather

At 6000 GMT (2 p.m. HST) pressure remains high over China and to the N of Japan. The depression continues to move slowly NE into the Pacific to the E of Tokyo. Another appears to be developing to the S of Southern Honan, and will move ENE. A tropical depression is developing about 120 miles S of N. Luzon, movement unknown.

Yesterday's Weather: Maximum: 75.3 deg. Fah. Minimum: 72.8 deg. Fah. Sunshine: 2.6 hours. Total rain: 0.01 in. (0.01 in. = 0.0254 in.)

Two miles from the Shumchun railway crossing, field artillery started practice firing yesterday morning and continued through the afternoon.

At 8 a.m. yesterday more than 20 Chinese Communist guerrillas entered the city and hoisted the Communist flag on main business buildings.

They set up headquarters in the Shumchun market, and placed guards on the main business streets.

Representatives of more than 300 Nationalist railway guards and Customs men negotiated by telephone with Communist authorities in Canton early yesterday morning for the peaceful surrender of their arms and men when the main force of regular Communist troops enter the city this morning.

Two Nationalist armed troops were reported to have been shot by the Communists in Shumchun yesterday morning for looting during the night.

In the Shumchun market headquarters, six Communists, dressed in light green jackets, and worn khaki pants, ordered Communist signs and slogans to be displayed in the city. Cook's Bridge, and the Shumchun railway crossing were opened to regular traffic about noon yesterday.

In Shumchun, more than 40 armed Nationalist troops walked about the city freely, and chatted with their Communist captors.

Formal Take-Over

One of the Communist officers explained to the "China Mail" that the troops would be formally interned this morning, when the main force of Communist regulars arrived, and took over.

Scores of railway employees, sitting disconsolately in the Chinese Shumchun railway station yesterday afternoon, all agreed that they were willing to work under the Chinese Communist Government.

They added that they hadn't been paid for two weeks.

One railway official said in the Communist headquarters of Shumchun yesterday's reports that the tracks between Hong Kong and Canton were destroyed were not true.

Informal Talks With Reds Denied

Reports in certain quarters yesterday that the representatives of China's new People's Republic have had informal talks with the Government of Hong Kong were officially described as substantially untrue.

According to the reports, Communist General Yeh Chien-ying or his representative arrived in Hong Kong before the fall of Canton and discussed four points with the Colony's Government.

The four points were said to be:

1. What attitude the Hong Kong Government would adopt when the People's Liberation Army reaches the frontier.
2. What the Hong Kong Government consider extradition of "black-listed" Kuomintang officials from Hong Kong to Li-borated areas in China; and
3. The question of the Leased New Territories.

The reports added that the Government of Hong Kong replied that the Government would give de facto recognition to "local conditions" when the People's Liberation Army reaches the Colony's borders.

In top picture, a Border zone police officer is ordering the Shumchun railway barbed wire and cement blocks to be removed to enter British territory. Bottom picture shows Railway guards and Nationalist Customs men in Shumchun yesterday. The men are waiting to surrender to the main force of Communist regular troops when they arrive in Shumchun this morning. ("China Mail" Photo).

Nehru Urges U.S. To Recognise Red Regime In China

New York, October 17.
The Indian Prime Minister, Mr. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, has urged upon the United States government early recognition of Communist China.

Top American officials, revealing this fact to the United Press today, said, however, that Nehru has not, contrary to radio reports, said he intended to go ahead and accord diplomatic status quo to the Peking Red regime at once.

They said Nehru in his conversations with the Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, expressed the opinion that recognition must come sooner or later and the sooner the better. He suggested that the United States take the lead in this matter.

High American officials assessing this suggestion from Nehru appeared inclined to believe that it resulted from his conversation with the British Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, than from any strong feelings. The Indian Premier might have. There is a tendency in top official quarters to believe that Nehru was being used by the British as a "front" for their desire to recognise Communist China.

Effect Lost
For that reason it appeared Nehru's suggestion lost much of its effect. It was explained that if American officials had thought it purely an Indian idea it would have had much more force than the form in which they believed it originated.

Nevertheless, indications were that the United States was seeking only a guarantee from the Chinese Communists that they would observe international obligations before opening negotiations with them for diplomatic exchanges.

The fall of Canton was described in informed quarters as a major turning point in the United States attitude. It was pointed out that this Communist conquest now made it possible for the United States to believe that one of the major conditions—that the Chinese Communists control a major portion of the country—had been realised.

British officials meanwhile were known to be in hourly contact with the State Department over the situation in China and the

Airline Official Optimistic Over Shanghai

Tokyo, October 17.
An American airline executive who arrived in Tokyo from Shanghai via Manila today, painted an optimistic picture of conditions in the Communist held city and said the anti-foreign feeling there had dissipated considerably.

Mr. Don King, Northwest Airlines Vice-President who departed from Shanghai on October 10 aboard the French liner Marechal Joffre, said the main sentiment among foreign business elements in Shanghai was a hope that the Nationalist blockade would be lifted soon.

"The feeling was that the blockade would end in a few weeks," Mr. King said. "Most foreign businessmen in Shanghai want to take a crack at doing business with the new regime."

Mr. King who has been in the Chinese metropolis since before the Reds captured the city said conditions there now are much better.

There were no blackmarket prices and money was strictly controlled, he said, and the city was well run. He added that since Tientsin was now blockade-free the value of the United States dollar had risen, slashing the living costs for those with foreign exchange by 30 to 40 per cent in the past few weeks.

Mr. King asserted that there will be some labour trouble but that the city authorities were now teaching the labour elements there is such a thing as responsibility as well as authority.

Mr. King said he was on his way to the United States to confer with Northwest Airline President, Mr. C. Hunter on future airline's policy in China and would co-ordinate decisions with members of the United States State Department.

Meanwhile Northwest office in Shanghai remained open under Chinese management. There had been no commercial plane flights to Shanghai since shortly before the Red entry.—United Press.

Damage To British Property In Foochow

(Exclusive to "China Mail")
Some damage was done to British property in Foochow during the recent fighting for the city between Nationalists and Communists, the "China Mail" learns from a reliable source.

The Foochow Club was hit by a shell while the British Consulate also suffered some damage. The Customs House, next to the Consulate, was hit, as were several houses occupied by British residents.

The "China Mail" informant said there was some still fighting for possession of Princess' Grave Hill, where the Nationalists had artillery stationed, and which was stormed by the Communists.

Speculation On Future Of HK Industries

Will the Communist occupation of the entire coastline of China affect the future of Hong Kong's vast industries, is the question asked by many people today.

Hong Kong's industrial growth has been steadily increasing ever since the end of the Pacific War. This growth received a particularly strong impetus from the deteriorating conditions in China, as a result of which many of the factories in North China moved down to Hong Kong.

In the opinion of competent observers the change of regime in China will not affect Hong Kong industrially, because the Colony's factories draw the bulk of their raw materials from abroad and the outlets for their finished products are also in overseas markets.

Hong Kong's industrial development has been one of the greatest phenomena of the post-war period. Despite the vast destruction wrought by the Japanese occupation, her industrialists in less than two years had her industries restored to the pre-war level of efficiency. Good demand from abroad for Hong Kong manufactured goods also helped very much in the Colony's industrial rehabilitation.

Not only was industry restored to the pre-war level, but due to the steady influx of factories from Shanghai and North China, many new enterprises were set up, and new manufactures never before attempted in the Colony were started.

Cotton Industry
The largest of the new industries introduced by the Northern industrialists is perhaps the cotton mills, of which eight, having between them 70,000 spindles, are operating at full capacity, and four are operating at partial capacity, while six are still under construction.

These mills are already affording employment to 4,500 workers, of which half are women.

If industrial development goes forward according to plan, by the end of 1950, when all the mills are expected to be working at full capacity, there will be a total of 240,000 spindles working affording employment to no less than 6,000 workers.

Most of the cotton mills are newly built and at least two of them, the Hong Kong Cotton Mills Limited, and the Wylar Textiles, are air-conditioned.

Work in the cotton mills is new to local labour, and workers are being trained by experienced hands from Shanghai and Tientsin.

Hong Kong also owes the development of the enamelware industry to Shanghai industrialists and today Hong Kong enamelware is sold to most overseas markets of the world.

Unemployed Fitter Sentenced

Sentence of three months' imprisonment was imposed on Lam Shing-wing, unemployed fitter, by Mr. James Wick at Magistrate's Court yesterday on a charge of effecting a public mischief.

Detective Sub-Inspector J.D. Brown said that defendant on June 29 sent a letter to the Custodian of Enemy Property regarding illegal possession of machinery by a certain factory in Kowloon, asking if he might give full information if the department was interested.

On July 10 defendant sent a letter to a factory in Kowloon touching upon the alleged illegal machinery asking the recipient of the letter to meet for discussion. The matter was reported to the police and investigations began. The Custodian of Enemy Property reported that the allegation was not true.

Defendant admitted that he wrote the letters in the hope of getting information money as he was broke.

Fined For Assault

A fine of $150 or four weeks' hard labour was imposed on Ho Chi-on, aged 27, by Mr. A. D. Scholes at Central yesterday on a charge of assaulting Tam Sui-han, aged 26. Defendant was also ordered to pay complainant compensation of $100 or go to prison for an additional four weeks.

Inspector Dewar told the court that defendant and complainant were married in January this year. In May they disagreed and later went to the Secretariat of Chinese Affairs. However, they separated.

On Saturday defendant went to complainant's house at 80 Stanley Street, third floor and asked her to go home with him.

Complainant refused and defendant took out a small knife from his pocket and cut her twice on the face. The cut was a very small one.

JUNKS COLLIDE

Two trading junks collided inside the Yaumatei Typhoon Anchorage on Sunday evening sustaining slight damage.

A dumb lighter was being towed in docking position in the shelter after discharging a cargo of logs at Tai Kok Tsui when her bow crashed into a stationary cargo boat.

No one was injured.

Earlier in the year a group of public-spirited citizens in the Shamshuipo district spent considerable time and money in building up their Association.

Since then equally hard-working Preparatory Committees have been organised in Shaohwan, North Point, Causeway, Bay, Happy Valley and Canal Road, Central District, Western District, and West Point; by the end of September the list was still growing.

Meanwhile a Stanley Village Association of a similar kind, and with 100 years of constructive work already to its credit, celebrated the opening of its new headquarters.

The aim of all these Kaifong Welfare Associations is to improve the welfare of the residents of their districts, irrespective of wealth or poverty, creed or race. They have great opportunities for contributing powerfully through self-help and the increased well-being of their communities, towards rural social stability.

Free Meal

Work at the six Welfare Centres included the issue of one free meal to an average of 1,800 destitute people a day, of whom more than 60 per cent were children and nearly 40 per cent women unable to seek work. These gatherings provided golden opportunities for more constructive welfare work.

The experimental laundry "co-operative" for a dozen of the women who attend the Saiyung-poon Centre was firmly established with average monthly gross taking of $1,000.

Other co-operative gardening ventures were started by the children's clubs at several of the Centres.

The most successful one, was at Happy Valley where ducks and hens were also reared, and where the children have started to speak up for themselves and intelligently criticise such help as the Social Welfare Office gives to their co-operative venture instead of harbouring any demoralising feelings of obligation for what has been done for them.

During the summer vacation a group of over 60 student-teachers from the Northcote Training College voluntarily gave up much of their time to attend these six Centres and help with the Children's Clubs.

Thirty children also went for a week to a holiday camp which was organised at Chai Wan by the Boys and Girls Clubs Association.

The Squatter Screening Squad worked in Kowloon during almost the whole of the last three months.

SHOPKEEPERS GET WARNING

Two shopkeepers were yesterday given 24 hours to pay their fine of $400 each by the Justices of the Peace Court on a summons for overcharging and not displaying price tags. If they fail to meet their fines the shops will be closed for three weeks.

The shopkeepers were Tang Kwun and Chong Yu-cheung.

Two other shopkeepers were also fined $400 while the Choy Cheong and Company was fined $500.

One other shopkeeper was fined $200 and another $50.

FINED FOR IMPORTING SILVER INTO HK

For importing eight packages containing 249 silver bars weighing about 6,500 taels into the Colony on board the Fatsan without a permit, a stoker, Wong Bing, aged 56, was fined $250 by Mr. Hin-shing Lo at Central yesterday.

"According to Revenue Inspector Millington a search was carried out on board the ss. Fatsan on October 15."

The boat arrived from Canton and the silver was found hidden in the port side of the boiler room behind the boiler toy-drum. Mr. C. Y. Kwun for the defence said that the silver was sent by the Hung Shing Money Exchange in Canton to another money changer in Hong Kong.

"The situation in Canton on October 15 was critical," continued Mr. Kwun, and the Hung Shing Money Exchange intended to remove to Hong Kong all their belongings which included 10 bags of silver.

"In the meantime, the Hung Shing had made an application for a permit in the Colony, and the silver was to have been loaded on board the Fatsan which was due to leave for Hong Kong

Four British river vessels formerly on the Canton-Hong Kong run are seen here alongside the Praya, awaiting resumption of the service. From right to left: Fatsan, (Butterfield and Swire), Wuxueh (B. and S.), Sing Hing and Wing Hing (Ta Hing). The Sing Hing will ply on the Macao run. The Wuxueh leaves at the week-end for Macao. ("China Mail" Photo).

NATIONALIST BLOCKADE DRAWS CLOSER TO HK

The Nationalist sea blockade of Chinese Communist ports has evidently been drawn closer to Hong Kong over the week-end.

Several Chinese Nationalist Navy gunboats patrolling the Pearl River Delta prevented the mv. Kwai Wah, which left the Colony on Sunday night to maintain the sea link with the Kwangtung capital, from proceeding upstream to Canton early yesterday morning.

As a result of this latest development in the South China situation, river shipping here came to a standstill yesterday.

The Chinese river vessels, Tinley and Kam Sing, both cargo craft, which originally intended to continue running on the Canton-Hong Kong service, cancelled their departure in the afternoon.

Small native craft plying between the Colony and the East and West Rivers ports—Wai-chow, Shingling, and Kungmoon—have adopted a "wait and see" policy. Only one motor junk cleared for Tungshun yesterday.

The 350-ton Chinese river vessel Kwai Wah left the Colony on Sunday night—the first to leave for Canton after the Nationalists' resumed—with no cargo and some 20 passengers.

On reaching Sa Kok in the Pearl River Delta at 5 a.m. yesterday, the master noticed several gunboats.

Three naval craft flying the Kuomintang flag approached and signalled the Kwai Wah not to proceed any further.

Shots Fired
Several machine-gun shots followed almost immediately.

The master was warned that no river vessels would be allowed to enter the Pearl River. He was ordered to return to his original port.

There were several other gunboats patrolling the Delta area. The Kwai Wah retreated some 1,000 yards, and the master decided to run the blockade. But on second thoughts he resumed his journey back to Hong Kong, where he arrived at 11 a.m. yesterday.

The commander of the Chinese river vessel said that when he returned from Canton on Saturday night there were no naval movements in the Pearl River vicinity.

The fleet might have gathered to enforce the blockade on Sunday, he added.

Ships Laid Up

In the meantime, former Canton-Hong Kong vessels are laid up along the Causeway Road Praya as a result of the fall of the Kwangtung capital.

On October 15 and by then the licence would be issued.

Unfortunately the Fatsan left Canton on October 14 and, due to the shortage of time, only eight packages of silver were loaded.

"The eight packages were concealed in the boiler room as in this case it would distract the attention of looters," continued Mr. Kwun.

Mr. Kwun then asked the court to treat the case leniently and it was a technical offence.

The silver bars, valued at $24,000, were ordered to be returned to the defendant.

A remand of 24 hours was granted by Mr. Hin-shing Lo in the case of Tong Ming-hui, aged 40.

Defendant was charged with importing four cases and a suitcase of silver coins into the Colony without a permit. Defendant was allowed bail of $5,000.

Sixth Man Involved In Rice Case

Charged with aiding and abetting in the stealing of 50 bags of government rice before Mr. F. X. d'Almeida at Kowloon yesterday, Leung Pui-sang, No. 1 godown man of the Green Island Cement Godown, became the sixth man to be involved with five others who faced various counts of stealing a large quantity of rice.

The others are: Ho Wai-lam, alias William, Ho cargo supervisor of the Government Rice Station; Ho Tin-shing; Cheung Kwan, shop coolie of the Hip Yick Government Rice Depot; Cheung Lam, cook at the depot; and Lau Cheong, No. 1 godown man of Godown No. 38C of the Hong Kong and Kowloon Godown Company.

Ho Wai-lam was represented by Mr. M. A. da Silva, while Mr. A.S.C. Comber represented Ho Tin-shing and Cheung Kwan. Both counsel asked that bail be set for their clients.

Mr. A. A. Shaw, Assistant Superintendent of Police attached to the Anti-Corruption Branch, opposed bail on the ground that the authorities are still investigating. Mr. d'Almeida said that if investigations during the next seven days he would consider bail.

The case was adjourned until November 21.

Ex-Soldier Sentenced

An ex-soldier, Lau Chung-ching, aged 40, was given the option of a fine of $150 or four weeks hard labour by Mr. A. D. Scholes at Central yesterday on a charge of possession of arms without a permit.

Defendant was on board a ship from Swatow which arrived in the Colony on Sunday. On arrival defendant handed a revolver and some rounds of ammunition to the comrade.

Later a search was made of defendant's luggage and a pistol and ammunition were found in a suitcase.

Defendant told the court that the luggage belonged to a friend.

Chan Hon-chuen alias Lo Kwok-hung alias Chuen Tsai—three counts each of robbery with aggravation.

The ticket scalper murder trial now in progress was formally adjourned to this Session.

RULING ON RUBBER IMPORTS

It has been the practice of the Department of Commerce and Industry when issuing import licences for Malayan rubber to insist on an affidavit regarding the use to which the rubber will be put, whether for local consumption or for re-export.

The need for these affidavits has diminished, and, in accordance with its policy of removing restrictions wherever possible, the Department will no longer require production of these documents when application is made for the licence.

Yugoslav Seat On Council?

Lake Success, October 16. A Western diplomatic source predicted today that Yugoslavia will be granted a seat in the United Nations Security Council despite furious Russian opposition.

A Yugoslav victory would deprive the Russians of one of their two sure votes in the 11-nation Council. There have been hints that such an eventuality might bring drastic results to the U.N.

The U.N. Assembly will choose on Thursday between American-backed Yugoslavia and Russian-sponsored Czechoslovakia for the seat now held by Soviet Ukraine. The U.N. Secretary General, Trygve Lie, has issued several denials of rumors that Russia threatened to leave the United Nations unless the Czechs are elected.

The informant who predicted a Yugoslav victory termed the Russian campaign as "black-mail". Another quarter, progress is reported in efforts to settle the prolonged East-West conflict in the Balkans. The Assembly President, General Carlos P. Romulo, who heads the committee trying to bring about reconciliation, is optimistic. Associated Press.

Collins Visits Okinawa

Tokyo, October 16. The U.S. Army Chief of Staff General J. Lawton Collins left by plane for Okinawa this morning on a hurried one-day inspection trip of that strategic island.

General Collins will return to Tokyo tonight. The time of his departure for Washington has not been announced although he is expected to appear before a Congressional Committee there on Tuesday. The call to return to his post in Washington forced the General to cut out of his inspection trip a planned visit to the 25th Division at Osaka. General Collins led the division at Guadalcanal in the first large scale fighting in the South Pacific before he was called to the European theatre to become one of General Dwight D. Eisenhower's best known Corps Commanders. Associated Press.

North Pole Was Once Inhabited

Washington, October 16. Pictograph records inscribed on a whalebone found in the stone ruins on the far northern Canadian Arctic are regarded by the Smithsonian Institution as "conclusive evidence that the North Polar region was once inhabited by a 'race of intellectuals'."

Dr. Harry Collins, Jr., of the Smithsonian staff, and his assistant, J. P. Micher of the National Museum of Canada, made the discovery this summer while probing the ruins of ancient villages in the region, which is now entirely uninhabited.

They estimated that the villages were built over 500 years ago by the Thules, a Nomadic people who lived in the Arctic Eskimos which had its origin in Northern Alaska.

Among the choice relics found was a whale bone "snow knife" on which was inscribed a pictorial story of the whale hunt. The pictograph were realistically drawn which show that the Thules were accomplished artists.

Unique among the finds were a combination stone and pottery lamp made of a limestone slab and a section of bag containing whale blubber. Other discoveries were a wide range of implements made of bone, ivory and stone.

Dr. Collins said: "The culture must have flourished at a time when conditions in the Arctic were less severe than human habitation than is the case today."—United Press.

Schacht Has Close Shave

Duesseldorf, October 16. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's Finance Minister, was taken into protective custody tonight after 500 demonstrators entered his hotel and beat up another man whom they mistook for him.

The demonstrators followed him into the lobby of the hotel where he was being guarded by a general scuffle followed. The crowd carried streamers saying: "There is no place here for war criminals" and "Schacht, disappear."

Dr. Schacht, who had locked himself in his hotel room with his wife, was offered protective custody by the police. He was then taken away in a police car while the crowd shouted after him.

Following Dr. Schacht into the hotel lobby, the demonstrators earlier caught hold of an elderly man resembling him and knocked him down and dragged him into the road.—Reuter.

MALTA LABOUR PARTY LEADER

Valetta, October 16. The former Minister of Works, Mr. D. Mintoff, was today unanimously elected leader of Malta's Labour Party at the Party's General Conference.

The Party last week passed a vote of censure on Dr. Paul Boffa, as leader of the Party and as Prime Minister. About 200 members attended the conference. The majority of moderate elements were absent.—Reuter.

Holders of such passes are not permitted in the members' Enclosure except for passing through on their duties and must remain in their employers' stands.

Yugoslavia Accuses Rumania

Belgrade, October 16. Yugoslavia today accused Rumania of participating in a Soviet-sponsored plan to foment hatred and nationalistic aspirations against the Yugoslav Government to cause disunity in the Balkans.

The charge was contained in a note handed to the Rumanian Legation here in reply to Rumania's recent denunciation of her 20-year treaty of friendship with Yugoslavia.

The note said that hostile acts by the Rumanians included "unbearable police terror" towards Yugoslav minorities in Rumania, "support of both demagogues and bribed Yugoslav citizens" and attempts to subvert Marshal Tito's regime.

It also complained of expulsion of diplomats, provocation by border patrol and frontier incidents, and violation of air space.—Reuter.

Change In Policy Demanded

London, October 16. The influential weekly review, "The Economist," today called for a swift change in the Allied policy in Germany to meet the challenge of the new Soviet-sponsored regime in the Eastern Zone.

It proposed a peace treaty with the Bonn Government, recognising German independence and a volunteer international military force to represent the Brussels Pact governments, in which Germany could enlist.

"The weight of Bonn is now matched against the cunning of Berlin," "The Economist" declared in a leading article. "Matters have come to such a pass that governments which are asked to reform and disarm and re-educate Hitler's Germany are already bidding for the favour of the Germans of Dr. Adenauer and Herr Pieck."

"That this is so is a measure of the impotence of the Allied policies towards Germany from the day of unconditional surrender onwards."—Reuter.

PEASANT FINDS GIANT SKULL

Naples, October 16. An Italian peasant digging a well in the rock-strewn Liri Valley, near Presinone, today uncovered a giant elephant skull believed to be between 50,000 and 60,000 years old.

The animal's huge tusks were still intact. The skull of another prehistoric elephant was discovered in the same area in 1926. Experts believe that they may have uncovered an ancient elephant graveyard—the secret place to which dying elephants are said to go instinctively.

Professor D'Amico, of Naples University, declared today that the skull was an almost perfect example of the extinct elephant type.—Reuter.

NO HABIT ON FINESSEING

IT IS UNWISE to have any fixed habit regarding finesses, as so many average players have. They seem to feel that a finesse gains for them if it wins and at the worst costs nothing if it fails. That is untrue. There are many situations in which it is more important to gain the lead at once than to seek a trick by means of a finesse. So the best players have no habit at all regarding finesses, but judge each situation on the basis of the facts that apply to it.

Having bid hearts twice before diamonds, South made it clear he had at least six cards of the major suit, so that North's two constituted safe support. That bidding was identical at two tables of a duplicate game, but the result of the deal was widely different. One declarer made the contract and the other was set. At each table West led the club.

K. the A winning and the heart 10 giving the lead to the A of East, who then returned the diamond 5. The losing declarer seized the chance for an early finesse—according to his habit—putting in the Q. When West won this with the K, he repeated diamonds with the 3, which East ruffed with the heart 5. The club 3 to the J then made the defense's fourth trick, beating the contract, and another diamond ruff set it two.

The other South saw, when that returned the diamond 5 to the third trick, the danger that it was a singleton and West had the K. But he also saw a sure way to make the contract by refusing the finesse. He came in with the diamond A so that he could lead trumps at once. Two more rounds of them took out East's last trump. From there in, the defenders could not possibly take anything except one trick each in the minors, making three all told for them.

TOUR ROUND KOWLOON

True to her name, Kowloon or Nine Dragons (in Chinese meaning) has nine main streets. Each of them plays an important role on the mainland in joining one district with the other.

Going to Kowloon from the island by Star Ferry, one lands in the Tsim Sha Tsui district where most of the mainland's business houses, all of Kowloon's important wharfs and the Kowloon terminus station of the Sino-British Kowloon-Canton Railway, are located.

Also in this district are Kowloon's most luxurious hotels, private apartments and popular shopping centre.

In this district three of the nine main streets of Kowloon serve the public in way of communication on the Southern most tip of the Kowloon Peninsula.

The three streets are Nathan Road, Salisbury Road and Chatham Road.

thoroughfare leads into the well known road forming a perfect cross.

This is Jordan Road crossing Nathan Road almost at the middle of its entire length. Jordan Road begins at the waterfront North West of the Star Ferry Kowloon wharf and ends in the King's Park district where most of the mainland's sport clubs are located.

Every day cars by thousands travel on this road to the vehicular ferry that carries motor vehicles across the harbour to Hong Kong.

With re-inforcements arriving in the Colony to boost the Colony's defences the Jordan Road vehicular ferry is considered to be one of the many places on the mainland which is of military value.

Lack of a bridge or a tunnel across the harbour makes Jordan Road in some ways more important than Nathan Road, although the former is much shorter than the latter.

Residential Area

Further down Nathan Road, about half a mile from the first milestone, comes Waterloo Road.

It also begins from the waterfront, but a little to the North of the Jordan Road sea end. The Waterloo Road links Nathan Road with Kowloon Tong (North East of the peninsula)—the mainland residential area.

About two miles long, Waterloo Road at one part has steep inclines on one side. Before reaching at Kowloon Tong it also passes Homantin, another residential area on the mainland.

Crossing both Waterloo Road and Nathan Road as one goes further North along Nathan Road is Argyle Street. This street is well known because it not only joins the Kowloon City district with the main part of Kowloon, but also because the Kowloon Hospital is located on it.

The Kowloon Hospital, the only Government hospital in Kowloon is on a slightly higher level very near to the junction of Waterloo Road and Argyle Street. Next to the hospital is a vacant lot of land which the military authorities recently took over.

Argyle Street is the nerve centre of Mongkok district which next to Yau-mat district.

KOWLOON SHOPPING BARGAINS

Not far from Argyle Street on Nathan Road is the Mongkok police station.

Nathan Road is the Mongkok Road still further North of Nathan Road. Prince Edward Road runs Eastward and links Nathan Road with Kai Tak airport. This road, has recently been made "beautified" by many safety islands in the middle of the road.

Beach Resorts

Passing the entrance to Prince Edward Road, Nathan Road looses itself in the Southern end of Castle Peak Road. On Sundays and other holidays, this road is particularly crowded with picnic makers and swimmers. For those who prefer long crisp French loaves for breakfast, Lane Crawford is the place to get it. The store also has Russian bread, Colas, Strussel and Fruit Malt breads.

Across from the street, the Dairy Farm has a large stock of cheese for your choice. The Grand Hotel is well known for its cooking. Do you know where to get draperies, silk materials or best quality silk pyjamas?

The Swatow Weng Lee Company, in Nathan Road, near Peking Road, has recently reinforced their large stock of silks.

Brocades of all kinds, Swatow draperies and other accessories which will brighten your homes can be had here at reasonable prices.

Perhaps you also want some new carpets. Then you should visit the Carpet Industrial, also situated in Nathan Road.

Cashmere carpets, Peking rugs and other Northern Chinese products can all be had here. The Industrial also sells silk, brocades, embroideries and other materials.

E. C. Fincher's is a fairland of toys. Miniature furniture for girls, plastic modern warfare weapons, models and jig-saw puzzles are among the hundred and one toys you can find in this store.

The National Toy Company is another known dealer in kiddies' things. Not only toys but baby clothes can be obtained.

Then there is the Sunny Company, another shop for toys and clothes for the children.

For latest fashions in gowns and dresses for all occasions, Tamara May's store in the Peninsula Hotel is a place you must visit.

Ready-made imported dresses and other dresses for special evenings can all be bought at Tamara May's.

Tamara May's also takes orders for all kinds of evening gowns. Jewellery certainly goes side by side with dresses. Try G. M. Arthur's store at 40, Nathan Road.

Reading matters, including magazines from almost every corner of the world, and greeting cards for every occasion await your inspection at the Swindon Book Company in Nathan Road.

WHALE CATCH

Shimonoseki, October 16. Two hundred and forty whales ranging from two to 10 metres in size were bagged by a fishing company near Goto island off Nagasaki Prefecture on Kyushu island, according to a report received here.

The catch, valued at 10,000,000 yen, followed the discovery of a school of about 250 whales near Goto island on October 10—United Press.

ABDULLAH MEETING WITH IRAQI PREMIER

Amman, October 13. The Iraqi Premier, Nuri es Said, conferred here today with King Abdullah of Jordan. They were understood to have reviewed the general policy to be followed by Jordan and Iraq on the United Nations proposals for the Middle East.

Nuri es Said later continued his journey to Alexandria for the meeting of the Arab League's General Assembly which opens tomorrow. He was accompanied by the Jordanian delegation.

The fusion of Iraq and Syria will be one of the subjects to be discussed at this meeting, according to some reports.

Informed sources believed that Iraq had changed her attitude since announcing that she would not co-operate with the United Nations Middle East Economic Survey Group which is trying to solve the Palestine-Arab refugee problem.

Iraq's official explanation was that she could not absorb refugees.

But now the Iraqi Premier is reported to have told Mr. Gordon Clapp, Chairman of the Survey Group, that Iraq was prepared to co-operate on conditions. He said he was prepared to exchange Iraqi Jews for Palestine Arab refugees provided Jewish property in Iraq was handed over as "compensation."

Large irrigable areas in Northern Iraq, fed by the rivers forming the frontier with Syria, are regarded as suitable for the settlement of refugees.

Mr. Clapp announced yesterday that the Mission's preliminary talks with Middle East Governments on the re-settlement of Arab refugees were complete.

Reports here said that a 12-man American Congressional mission would arrive in the Middle East this week to study the organization and structure necessary to carry out the Clapp mission's recommendations. It was understood that American capital would form the major contribution to the scheme.

Usually well-informed sources said that the Arab Governments had rejected Mr. Clapp's suggestion that a United Nations executive agency undertake to carry out the proposed schemes.—Reuter.

RUSSIAN ENVOY TO EAST GERMANY

Berlin, October 13.

Russia entrusted the guidance of the East German Republic today to a tight-lipped diplomat who pulled the strings for the Communist coup in Hungary after the war.

Naming Gregori M. Pushkin as chief of its diplomatic mission, the Soviet Union became the first power in the world to grant legal recognition to the nine-day-old state.

German Communists said Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl's government in East Berlin will soon have formal diplomatic relations with five other powers — Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria.

They are jubilant over the prospect that the Eastern Republic is headed toward top rank among Soviet satellites in Europe.

Stalin's goodwill message last week, in which he described the German Soviet people as the strongest in Europe, was repeated over and over by Communist propaganda today.

Pushkin was replaced as Soviet Ambassador in Hungary last June, his handiwork of a "people's democracy" complete.

In four post-war years he helped Matyas Rakosi and other Moscow-trained revolutionaries to break Hungary's largest party, the Small Landholders, and to smother Catholic resistance in a dominantly Catholic country.

Red Weakness

Milestones in Pushkin's Budapest career included the trial and conviction of Cardinal Mindszenty, the resignation of Small Landholder President Zoltan Tildy and the hanging of his son-in-law, and the entrapment of allegedly pro-Tito Communists headed by ex-Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk.

In East Germany, Pushkin will find President Wilhelm Pieck and Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl as devoted as Rakosi to Moscow policy.

He will also find that Communists are in a small minority but conceal their numerical weakness through a "national front" and evasion of popular elections.

It will be no novelty for him that many Germans have a deep-seated enmity toward the Soviet Union. Many Hungarians had the same feeling.

People's Police

The East German Republic has a people's police, like Hungary's indoctrinated by Communist teachers. It has con-

NEW RUSSO-GERMAN PACT FORESHADOWED BY STALIN MESSAGE

London, October 13.

Generalissimo Stalin's message to the President of the new East Zone German Republic reads like the prelude to a new Soviet-German Pact.

After saying that Germany and Russia bore the greatest sacrifices in the last war, the Soviet head of state goes on to declare that the two peoples "possess the greatest potential in Europe for great actions of world importance."

The existence of "peace-loving" governments simultaneously in Germany and Russia "excludes the possibility of new wars in Europe," he added.

The new Soviet policy towards Germany contrasts sharply with the proposals for a joint control of Germany by the occupying powers which were tabled by the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Andrei Vyshinsky, at the beginning of the Council of Foreign Ministers in Paris.

On that occasion, less than six months ago, Moscow advocated a return to a rigid system of four-power control which would have shorn the German people of the measure of independence granted the Western Zones under the Bonn Constitution.

Now, in the words of Generalissimo Stalin, the relationship of the new Eastern German Communist Government and the Soviet Union "makes impossible the enslaving of the European countries by the world imperialists."

Since most Western observers agree that Soviet policy remains consistent in its long-term aims and fluctuates only for tactical reasons, it is generally assumed here that the real control of governmental authority in Germany will remain in Soviet hands through picked German Communists, even more securely than if a return to quadripartite Military Government had been accepted by the Western powers.

A Paradox

Paradoxically, though the Soviet-sponsored Government of the Eastern Zone claims to be the government of all Germany with its capital in Berlin, the Soviet sector of Berlin only sends observers to the Parliament of the Eastern Zone.

The Western occupying powers, today agreed in Bonn to extend the representation of the Western sectors of Berlin in Bonn by granting them full rights in the Upper Chamber of the Federal Parliament.

This retention by both sides of a special status for Berlin is most easily explained by assuming that both Moscow and the Western Allies feel it necessary to retain a greater measure of control in Berlin while the city is administratively and politically divided than they insist upon in the Zones.

The system also leaves the door open for a possible resumption of four-power co-operation in verted thousands of private businesses to people's ownership. Leaders of the non-Communist parties—the Christian Democrats and Liberal Democrats—have been pressured into active endorsement of announced Communist aims.

These include renunciation of former German territories acquired by the Soviet bloc, and qualified support of Cominform policy in international affairs and enforcement of a constitution clearly patterned after older people's democracies in Eastern Europe.

Prime Minister Grotewohl is reported to be engaged today in considering a list of Communist candidates for East Germany's first election to Moscow.

Besides Pushkin as chief diplomat, the Soviet Union will maintain a control commission here until a peace treaty is concluded.—Associated Press.

New Realities

The recommendations of the Strasbourg Assembly in the economic field, calling for re-establishment of convertibility of European currency and the systematic promotion of inter-European trade, must be adjusted to the new realities of devaluation and its aftermath.

The arrival today in London of M. Henri Spaak, the President of the Assembly, who will have talks at the Treasury, "is understood to be party for the purpose of discussing with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, the repercussions of devaluation on the Council of Europe's efforts to promote economic unity in Europe."

M. Spaak, it is worth recalling, was reported to have considered as a major blunder Britain's decision to negotiate the dollar gap issue at a Washington conference instead of insisting on a general conference embracing all those other powers with similar problems.

He will probably wish to know something of the "consequential action" which the Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, has announced will be taken by Britain and how this action will affect co-operation between Britain and the other members of the Council of Europe.

In a wider politico-economic field, the passage through London this week of Pandit Nehru, the Prime Minister of India, on his way to Washington, raises three complex inter-related problems:

1. How the effects of devaluation within the Commonwealth are going to be faced;
2. How much the political role of India as a potential bastion against the advance of Communism in the Far East entitles her to a privileged share of the Commonwealth pool of dollars;
3. How much the United States is prepared to invest in Indian development, and on what terms.—Reuter.

BAN STORY A CANARD

Berlin, October 13.

Reports of the banning of Britons from American clubs here have been officially denied in a statement from the British Army headquarters in Berlin.

The statement said that Major General G. K. Bourne, the British Commandant in Berlin, has not sent a letter of protest to Major-General Maxwell D. Taylor, his American opposite number, as had been reported.

No order barring British soldiers or civilians from American clubs had, in fact, been issued.—Reuter.

JEWISH "CRISIS MISSION"

Paris, October 13.

A "crisis mission" of 10 leaders of the United Jewish Appeal Fund left here by air tonight for Israel.

The members of the mission will confer with the Israeli Prime Minister, Mr. David Ben-Gurion on measures to deal with 85,000 immigrants, now in tents and barracks, before winter comes.

An American Joint Distribution Committee communiqué announced: "A $15,000,000 fund has already been established to care for sick, aged and disabled Jews in Israel. The immigration crisis is the result of a new influx of Jewish refugees within the past two weeks."

The mission will also discuss with the Finance Minister, Mr. Eliezer Kaplan, the amount of aid needed from American Jews in 1950 to develop Israel and care for the "hard core" of refugees.

Members of the "Crisis Mission" will report to a national conference in Atlantic City on November 25, where a 1950 nation-wide aid campaign will be planned.

Accompanying the Mission are Mr. Harry Greenstein, Jewish Affairs Advisor to Mr. John J. McCloy, U.S. High Commissioner in Germany, and Mr. Henry Bernstein, Executive Vice-President of the United Jewish Appeal.—Reuter.

HLI INSPECTED BY PRINCESS

Inverness, October 13.

Princess Margaret saw part of her new regiment today. She inspected the First Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry in her first official engagement as the regiment's Colonel-in-Chief.

The inspection was at nearby Fort George, near Balmoral Castle, her holiday home.—Associated Press.

ANOTHER U.S. HONOR FOR "COSMOS"

Cosmos Aerated Water Company, (H.K.) Ltd., bottlers of "COSMOS" beverages, which acclaimed to be one of the Colony's favourite cold drinks, has again attained another honor in the U.S.A. It has recently gained wide recognition in the bottling industry field, when it was featured in a whole page of the "Squirt Reporter", a wellknown publication in Beverly Hills, California.

COSMOS AERATED WATER CO. OPENS IN HONG KONG

Opening of the Cosmos Aerated Water Company, Limited, in Hong Kong, was announced recently at a gala party held in the far-east city. It is the second such enterprise to figure in beverage industry news in recent months. H. H. Wong, who operates the new G. H. Wong, who operates the long-established Cosmos Aerated Water Company in Manila, Philippine Islands.

Mr. Hubert Wong's grand opening party in Hong Kong attracted many prominent guests, including Mr. C. B. R. Wong, who operates the long-established Cosmos Aerated Water Company in Manila, Philippine Islands.

The first started business in Hong Kong in February of the year, with an authorized capital of $1,000,000. A few months later, the plant was producing 5,000 bottles of various beverages daily. The sales figure was limited by a bottle shortage, but a shipment was expected at mid-summer, which according to Mr. Wong, would result in substantially increased production.

Mr. Wong's plant on Castle Peak Road occupies a total of 1,000 square feet. Twenty persons are employed, including a few American technical assistants. The labor force needed to operate the plant is relatively small because the plant has the latest automatically operating machinery including a 12-speed filler-weigher-capper, which can turn out 22 bottles per minute. Total plant capacity is 20,000 bottles per day.

Mr. Wong is especially proud of his factory's sanitation. All bottles are sterilized; water is filtered and cooled before it passes through the carbonizer and filling machine.

Founder of the Cosmos Aerated Water Company, Ltd., in Manila in 1918 was the late Mr. Wong Neng, father of the two brothers who now operate the two branches. During World War II, the Manila head factory was taken over and Leased to the group by the Japanese during their occupation. The May, 1949 issue of The Squirt Reporter carried an account of how the Wong Brothers rebuilt the plant after liberation, and how it has since become the producer of the Philippines' favorite beverages.

The new plant at Hong Kong is expected to introduce Squirt to its many customers and promises to become a valuable user of the various concentrates produced by The Squirt Company.

RUSSIAN SELL-OUT ALLEGED

Frankfurt, October 16. The official Yugoslav organ "Borba" today accused Russia of attempting to sell out and liquidate the Greek Communist movement in a deal with the West to prevent election of Yugoslavia to a seat in the United Nations Security Council.

"Borba", quoted by Tanjug in a radio broadcast monitored here, said the Soviet leaders thus were shown to have "lost all feeling of responsibility for the international workers' movement."

"The Soviet policy has come to a dead end which calls for the use of such methods which obviously prove the counter-revolutionary character and lack of principle into which Soviet leadership has fallen."

United Press.

NEW PARTY IN GERMANY

Frankfurt, October 16. A left-wing German Social Democratic group, advocating co-operation with the Communists, was formed at a secret conference here today.

Called "Social-Democratic Action" the group rejects any "one-sided Western orientation" and supports good relations with the Soviet Union and the creation of a joint administration for Western and Eastern Germany, a statement issued to the press said.

Leaders of the group are former Social Democrats expelled individually during the past year. They include Hans Ziegler, former Mayor of Nuremberg, who was expelled for participating in the Moscow "Peace Congress".

The organisers claimed support from prominent Social Democrats inside the Party, but declined to give any names.—Reuter.

One Day Only: WYMAN in "CRIME BY NIGHT"

Hundreds of weeping Czechs poured into Prague's prisons and police stations today in anguished search for friends and relatives snatched up in big-scale arrests in the past two weeks.

Reliable informants said the arrests are continuing.

Some Prague people reported that they had seen several large police vans on Saturday night disgorging people seized in night raids at prisons.

Many relatives of arrested people inquired today at police stations but were turned away without information.

In sad queues, they began to assemble early in the morning with food parcels, some dressed in their Sunday best, others in worn clothes. Many women carried knitting in anticipation of long waits.

They had been told previously that if the food parcel was accepted, it meant the arrested person was being held at that prison.

Many of the small businessmen and others arrested as "political" prisoners have been sent to Pančatic, Prague's biggest prison, which stands on a hill on the outskirts of the city, before being shipped off to forced camps or the coal mines.

Labour Camps

A long queue of relatives formed there early this morning, hoping for news of their loved ones.

Some were fortunate and their food parcels taken in by police guards with registers of names. The parcels were all opened and thoroughly searched. Any written messages were destroyed.

A Prague woman tracing a friend yesterday obtained entry to one of the labour camps—called "educational camps" by the Czech government.

This camp—near Kladno, mining and industrial city about 15 miles west of Prague—has 400 inmates including numerous women.

The woman visitor reported that in addition to their work the inmates must undergo nightly study of Marx-Leninism.—Associated Press.

QUIRINO WARNING

Manila, October 17.

President Quirino today warned Filipinos that the threat of Communism is nearer than "most of us realise".

In a campaign talk before 5,000 tenant farmers at Paniqui, Central Luzon, he stressed the proximity of China to these islands and declared: "Already, agents of a dangerous ideology are in your midst and coming to you at dead of night. Through threats and intimidation they are forcing you to help them implant a form of life which would imprison not only your thoughts but your feelings."

President Quirino warned that unless he is taken in the approaching Presidential election, the Philippines may again suffer as it did during the Japanese occupation.

It was an offhand reference to his chief Presidential rival, Jose P. Laurel, who is a candidate of the Nacionalista Party in the November 7 election.

Mr. Quirino has been devoting most of his electioneering against Mr. Laurel, who headed the puppet Philippine Republic during the Japanese occupation.

Mr. Laurel has received the support of the bulk of tenant farmers in Central Luzon and is conceded an edge in this popular district by both President Quirino and the third party candidate, Jose Avelino.—Associated Press.

AMERICAN PLAY IN MOSCOW

Moscow, October 16.

A packed audience at the Moscow Drama Theatre last night applauded the first performance in Russian of the American playwright, Lillian Hellman's, "Ladies and Gentlemen," the story of a Southern family during and after the American Civil War.

In the United States, the play was called "Another Part of the Forest."

Hellman's plays previously presented here in Russian were "The Little Foxes" and "Watch on the Rhine."—Reuter.

QUIRINO TRAIN DERAILED

Manila, October 17.

The dining-car of the special train taking President Quirino and other high officials to Paniqui, Tarlac, in Central Luzon, went off the rails yesterday but aside from being shaken none of the party was reported hurt.

The accident was attributed to a loose wheel and the possibility of sabotage if discounted, although the derailment occurred in lonely Ruk country near Angeles, Pampanga.

The President went to Paniqui to attend the wedding anniversary celebration of the former Tarlac Congressman Jose Cojuangco and Mrs. Cojuangco and to deliver a campaign speech.

He was to proceed to Nueva Ecija province to continue his Central Luzon barnstorming campaign.

Strong security forces accompanying the President immediately deployed at the scene of the accident and Army planes cruised overhead, but there was no sign of dissidents.—United Press.

IF TIBET IS ATTACKED

New York, October 16.

Lowell Thomas thinks that remote Tibet, unfriendly to strangers for centuries, would accept outside help if attacked by the Chinese Communists.

The newscaster arrived with his wife and son by plane from London. He was on crutches, the result of a fall from a horse on a Tibetan mountain pass. He broke a thigh bone.

Mr. Thomas said the Communists consider Tibet an outer province of China. There is a chance that a United States mission could be set up in Tibet for the first time in history, Mr. Thomas added.

The Chinese Communists, he said, recently announced in Peking that they planned shortly to free Tibet which has an army of only 10,000.—Associated Press.

NEGRO JUDGE APPOINTED

Washington, October 16.

President Truman today nominated a Negro for the first time as a Federal Circuit Court Judge. He is Mr. William Hastie, Governor of the Virgin Islands. He was nominated for the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, which covers New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the Virgin Islands.

Mr. Truman also nominated Mr. J. McConkey, the 55-year-old District Attorney who prosecuted the 11 American Communist Party leaders convicted on Friday as a Judge for the Southern District of New York.—Reuter.

Grim Prospect For Children

Sydney, October 16.

The Australian Foreign Minister, Herbert Evatt, today said: "It is a grim and ghastly prospect for the children of the world to think there are those among us who accept the fatalistic doctrine of inevitability of war. At the same time, it would be equally fatalistic to suggest that peace is inevitable."

"It would be the height of folly to neglect defence preparations, as was done by the democratic nations prior to 1939—a mistake for which we paid so dearly in the early part of the war."—United Press.

MIDGET CATTLE FOUND

Jamestown, October 16.

Gene Holtzer, 27-year-old North Dakota rancher, claims to have discovered a herd of two-foot high Lilliputian cattle in a lost canyon "somewhere in the United States."

Holtzer, who has brought three bulls and two cows back with him to substantiate his story, refused to say where the canyon is "I am going back to get the rest as soon as I can get the funds," he said.

Holtzer said he discovered the dwarf herd several years ago when he was flying over the territory. Two weeks ago he went back to the canyon in a helicopter to capture his "samples."

"All the cattle were very wild," Holtzer said. "They charged at us but we managed to lasso them and bring them out by helicopter. When we went into the canyon we did not think we would have too much success because they move really fast. The ones we have now are fairly tame."

Veterinary surgeons, who examined the cattle brought out by Holtzer, describe them as perfect dwarf animals. The bulls weigh between 200 and 225 pounds and the cows about 170 pounds. They measure from two feet to two feet four inches in height.—Associated Press.

Chinese "Visitors" To PI

Manila, October 16.

Immigration Bureau sources here said a recommendation that 10,000 Chinese visitors be allowed to stay despite expired permits, has been turned down by the Foreign Office.

The Immigration Commissioner, Mr. Jose Bengzon, told the Foreign Affairs Department that troubled conditions in China would visit physical difficulties on the departees. Mr. Bengzon asked for a three-year extension. The reply from the Foreign Office complained that there were too many temporary visitors—the bulk of them from China—who have overstayed their visa period.

Whether the Philippines will start deportation proceedings may depend on whether the would-be deportees can be found. The Philippines have taken stern measures to discourage illegal immigrations. A few months ago a group of convicted Communist Chinese were deported to Amoy to certain execution. Later, a large group of more than 200 smuggled Chinese were deported under guard on a Philippine Naval patrol boat.—Associated Press.

GUNS AND BUTTER

Hong Kong has taken the arrival of Communist troops on the border with commendable calm. This is partly due to long drawn out anticipation of the event, partly to our high level of military preparedness, and partly to the fact that no sensational incidents have taken place. On the whole, the public is confident that nothing serious is likely to happen, and over the week-end the New Territories had the usual quota of touring cars and picnic parties.

Admittedly the roads rumble with the constant passing of military traffic, tented encampments dot one hillside after another, and bronzed young men in khaki are seen everywhere. But there is no apparent tension. The rural life continues as usual.

The village of Shataukok is an epitome of the situation which has, of course, potential dangers. Half the population live on one side of the frontier, and half on the other. Today regular Red army forces are expected to take over from the temporary Communist administration, and it will require considerable tact and willingness to co-operate to prevent trouble. It could be another example of the cold war, another Berlin on a small scale, but every effort will be made on this side to see that it is not.

The situation is very different from that, existing in Europe. Here British forces, highly trained and mechanised, have to defend a very limited area, having the important advantages of command of the air and sea. The Communist armies, though large, are more medieval than modern, and many of the men will hope now to be able to return to their native villages.

Neither side has the atom bomb, or is likely to threaten the other with bacteriological warfare.
In London and New York it is being suggested that such fearsome instruments may not be used, by mutual agreement, in the next war, as the results would be too appalling to both sides. It will not do, however, to depend on any such argument. It is unlikely that Russia has anything like an adequate quantity of the bomb, while America has a large stockpile.
This fact is Western Europe's sole immediate protection against the otherwise overwhelming Soviet armies.

If it were really decided to ban the atom bomb, the result might well be to make the third world war more certain, as well as rendering inevitable the devastating initial defeat of the free countries.
It could, in fact, take the muzzle off Soviet aggression.

The question of such terrible weapons is unlikely to arise here, but the developing situation on our borders does have world significance.
Minor incidents will be dealt with firmly but quietly, but if any serious infringement of our sovereignty occurred, such as a full-scale attempt at invasion, it would almost certainly be the signal for global conflict.

Every attempt will be made by the British to avoid trouble, and it is fervently hoped that the Communists will have sufficient wisdom to adopt the same attitude.

RUSSIANS CO-OPERATE IN THIS INTER-ZONE PATROL

By ANTONY TERRY

Four men, a Russian, a Frenchman, an American and an Englishman sit down together to a British Army tea every afternoon in a NAAFI canteen in Vienna at four after a drive along the Danube.
The Englishman acts as host with the teapot.

They are members of the only East-West organisation which does not end in a veto Vienna's unique radio-equipped International Military Police Patrol which keeps order in the four-power city. In its American-equipped radio trucks it has almost succeeded in stamping out crime by allied troops.

Vienna's "Four Power" has another distinction. It is the only organisation in which the Russians allow the British, French and American members to enter their occupation zones on patrol.

The patrol's four-power tentative was an idea of the Assistant British Provost Marshal in Vienna, Major B. White. It took the Russians six months to agree to the idea of letting their M.P.s down to a meal with "fascist beasts from Yorkshire, Idaho and Paris."

Then after a few months they suddenly called it off again last July without explanation. A fortnight later they restarted, still without saying why. Meanwhile the Russian patrolmen were not allowed to have tea with the others, but had to sit outside in the truck while their colleagues ate.

Having once agreed to the idea,
the Russians were then determined to "outdo" the "Western capitalists." They arranged for patrolmen's meals in their sector to be taken in one of the leading luxury blackmarket restaurants of Vienna.

Wait For Crime

When not eating the members of the "travelling circus" (as Viennese call it) are constantly on the air, as they cruise around the city in their fleet of 12 patrol cars. They wait for crime reports flashed from headquarters of the American driver and radio operator.

In a "pidgin" German he translates the message to the Russian, and sometimes to the Frenchman.

If a drunken Russian has shot an Austrian coffee house keeper in the Soviet sector the report sends the patrol speeding to the scene, where the Russian patrolman takes charge and tries to arrest the culprit.

Sometimes, but not often, he has to call on the help of the other three. On one occasion, a drunken, gun-happy Russian who had been molesting Austrians, killed the Soviet patrolman, wounded the American driver and the Frenchman and jumping on to the truck ordered the British MP to "drive to America." The alternative was a bullet through the head.

The Englishman drove the Russian to the nearest Military Police headquarters, which happened to be in the American sector of Vienna. The Russian gave himself up quite meekly. The Englishman had never driven a car before.

Most serious crime is still committed by Russians, many minor incidents caused by Americans.
British and French troops are right down at the bottom of the crime lists. In any case the radio patrol's ability to be in any part of the city in a few moments has slashed crime incidence to a point where even the Russians agree that it was a good idea.

Two years ago they refused to admit that armed holdups, then at a peak, were ever caused by Soviet troops. The culprits, they said, were Displaced Persons dressed up as Russians. Major White started an anti-crime drive which succeeded in catching 20 Soviet soldiers red-handed in armed holdups in the centre of Vienna.

The Russians kept quiet after that. But they introduced such strict anti-crime measures among their troops, including banning them from cafes in Vienna's centre, that holdups became a rarity.

Exact Rules

Exact rules govern the relations of the patrolmen to one another. Each carries a book of rules, and a "Patrol Orders" printed in English, French and Russian and signed by the four allied provost marshals.

The first patrol order is "All patrol members will work in harmony and co-operation and respect each other at all times."
This did not prevent a squabble over who should sit next to the American driver. The Russians insisted that they should be in the front seat. Bickering lasted for some months, but in the end the Russians agreed to take the front seat in turn with the other two members of the patrol.

Some disagreements between Russians and the Western powers are too fundamental to be adjusted. One of these is over the question of photographs. The Russians try to arrest anyone who takes a photograph of a Russian soldier. The British, Americans and French refused to agree to this action, which would ban any tourist with a box camera from taking a snap of the four-power patrol.

The Russian patrolmen still try to prevent photographs being taken of them, though they are powerless in the British sectors of the city.

The Americans have conceded to the Russians so far as to agree that permission to photograph must first be obtained from Military Policy H.Q. In practice permission is never granted as the Russians never answer the applications.

On one occasion the Soviet patrolman tried to seize the

A correspondent suggests that really good business might be done by holding a flag day at Shataukok.

According to yesterday's reports, Mr. Herbert Morrison has warned Britons that the Socialist government must take further measures if the country is not to drift into complete economic chaos.

An underground source tells me that the projected three-day, 20-hour week, will almost certainly have to be postponed for the time being; also, the project to give double pay as pensions to all trade unionists at the age of 55 will be temporarily shelved.

Friend of mine had with a very ancient launch had to ask for help last Sunday to beach the craft, which was submerged.
"Too bad she had to sink," remarked one of the rescuers.
"She didn't sink," rejoined the owner tartly. "She just didn't rise up with the tide."

How time drags.
"She came up on deck when she heard a noise as of a heavy body like an anchor or a chain being dragged along the deck. It was the mate's watch."

Permanent waves can be made with a home perm, but what makes permanent waves?

Myrtle says gold diggers may be gimp-pigs, but it would be cruel to use them in medical research.

"Mrs.—who gave birth to a 19-year-old daughter, is reported to be making good progress. Mr.— who suffered a broken leg in the same accident, is recovering."
What about the reporter?

Truth will out.
"My father was born in poor circumstances, but he did a rich man."

"Gladys Colthorpe, whose work on the stage was interrupted by the arrival of a baby, is to return in a manly play."

Me afraid? said Myrtle's newest boy friend. Why, when I'm in danger, I keep so cool my teeth chatter.

Household god, more likely.
"The tenants had to be resued by a fire-escape, and remarkable scenes were witnessed as they descended, accompanied by cats, dogs and other household pets. An invalid old lady was among them."

"The speaker said colourblindness occurs most often in people of high intelligence. Only one per cent of the women examined were found to be colour-blind."

There's probably a subtle implication there, if only I could get it.

camera of a French tourist and had to be forcibly prevented by his British, American and French colleagues. Nowadays, to avoid trouble, the Russian patrolman rather angrily looks the other way when a tourist with a camera appears. Then they can say they never saw that they were being photographed.

The Band Plays But Nobody Dances

By ALAN HUMPHREYS

At nine o'clock every evening the concealed lights are switched on round the dance floor of Athens' glossiest open-air restaurant and the eight-piece band plays its first number.

For the next four hours, with brief intervals, the band plays fairly new French, not-so-new American, tunes, from swing to samba, bebop to rumba.

But though the tables are full nobody gets up to dance, nobody even claps. This voluntary abstention from public dancing is the rich Athenians' way of sharing the privations of the Army.

It was introduced as a counter-to the propaganda broadcast to the Greek troops by the rebel radio from Yugoslavia—since transferred to Rumania—that while they were fighting in the mountains their "monarcho-Fascist rulers" were leading a sybaritic life in Athens.

Those broadcasts changed the taste in Athens sought by well-to-do Greeks. That reads like a non-sequitur, but it isn't.

In Private

Narrow apartments consisting of rooms one behind the other are right out of favour. What are wanted are those constructed on the square principle, and particularly with wide connecting doors between the two largest rooms.

These provide enough floor-space to hold small dances in private at which the Army's sufferings can be forgotten.
The curfew and four meatless days a week are also intended to remind Athenians that the country isn't really at peace yet.

But the masochistic fervour with which these limitations to a life of leisure ease are mentioned becomes much less impressive when you realise, for instance, that not one per cent of the capital's 1,500,000 people is ever made aware of the curfew.

It doesn't begin until 2 a.m.
and is off at 5 a.m.

Monday, Wednesday, and Friday are meatless, but fish can be had. Saturday is both meatless and fishless.

In the better eating-places, however, you can have, on any day, chicken, turkey, quail, and pigeon. In the simpler tavernas you can have lamb. "Meatless," it seems, is synonymous with "beef-less."

The vast majority of Athenians, once again, are not made aware of these regulations. They are lucky, anyway, if they can afford meat of any kind once a week, for the cost of living in Greece is among the highest in the world.

The currency not only followed sterling down but went one step farther. When the £ was at four dollars it bought 32,000 drachmas.
Today it buys 42,000.

This is the sixth devaluation of the Greek currency since the Liberation. Pre-war the drachma was worth about a halfpenny.
Now there are 175 to a penny.
You can be a millionaire for £24.

And because the highest denomination note is 20,000 drachmas, in order to have enough cash you carry around a wad of notes, mostly dirty and tattered, about as thick as a pack of cards.

You can't even give away a 50-drachma note, and there isn't much use for the 100-drachma note. You can post a local letter, make a telephone call, or take the shortest trip on a tram for 300 drachmas (134d.), buy a box of matches for 400 (24d.), a newspaper for 500 (34d.).

But in the main the working unit is now 1,000 drachmas (8d.), the price of one egg.

In the well-stocked shops prices are quoted in thousands—and what ferocious prices they are!

Many price tags omit the last three noughts, but whether the pair of women's shoes is marked 225,000 or 225 it is still 25 10s

Very High Tea

Prices scarcely encourage temperance. Tea, weak and scented, made by dropping a sachet into hot water, is 2s. 6d. a pot, local brandy is, a glass, orange juice 2s. 6d. (the aniseed drink) 9d.

British cigarettes are harder to find than in London, and when brought out from under the counter cost 4s. 6d. for 20.

A luxury tax makes cinemas expensive. Nevertheless, the opening of indoor cinemas after the first heavy autumn fall of rain has drawn crowds to see "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

Because modern Greek has no letters for the sound of our "g" and "d," and these are represented by "mp" and "nt," it's at first somewhat puzzling to see the star of that film billed in Greek characters as "Rompert Ntonat."
And even now it's still a mpt misconcerting.

He Rocks Them At Brighton

By CECIL WILSON

Alfred Marks, the comedian most managers are after, has decided to keep the West End waiting a little longer.

He has made such a hit in Brighton's summer show, "Montmartre" that he is being kept on for a winter edition called "Deceit," which will run until December.

This time he will play for 10 per cent of the receipts, which will about double his salary and take him well into three figures a week.

Alfred Marks belongs to the group of ex-Servicemen comedians who call themselves "goons" and plan some day to unite in a crazy show of their own.

They have all done pretty well to date. Michael Bentine, who can get fun even out of a sink plumber, goes straight from "Palladium" variety into the Folies Bergere show at the Hippodrome.
Peter Sellers, the impressionist, joins the Gracie Fields Palladium bill. Harry Secombe and Spike Milligan are also climbing high.
Marks, a 28-year-old ex-RAF flight sergeant, is in no hurry for West End fame. When he does get there he means to stay. Until then he prefers to go on grooming his comedy and await the real chance.

Before the war this big, booming, boyish-faced lad from Holborn was an auctioneer in Pettit-coat lane and a commercial traveller, earning a few extra shillings as a semi-pro.

During the war he spent five years in the RAF and transferred from engineering to entertainment to tour desert outposts beyond ENSA's reach.

After the war no one seemed very interested in him. One agent told him plainly: "If you've been in the Forces five years there's nothing I can do."

Down to the last few pounds of his gratuity, he went to the Windmill Theatre's Vivian Van Damme for an audition. He was the 13th comedian on the list.
Van Damme dismissed most of the others after two minutes' trial, but he, heard Marks right through, signed him up, and kept him in the show for 16 months.

Then the West End offers began rolling in, but he turned them down for a Brighton offer. It came from Danny O'Neill who had broken into management by touring "Bitter Sweet."

O'Neill had two weeks in which to open his summer show and still he had no comedian. Then he thought of Alfred Marks. Since that June day the black-haired afterthought has become the white-headed boy of Brighton show business.

PEIPING TALKS ON RECOGNITION ISSUE

British Negotiations With Mao Regime STATEMENT BY REDS

Washington, October 16.

Britain has been making earnest efforts to reach a practical working basis with the Chinese Communists in current negotiations at Peiping, diplomatic authorities said today.

What the Communists want is formal diplomatic recognition of their new government by the United States and Britain, along with resumption of full trade relations.

Just what effect such recognition would have on relations between Britain and the United States is not clear.

COMMONS ASSEMBLE TODAY

London, October 16. The Parliament, which Mr. Winston Churchill says is "dead and decomposing," convenes on Tuesday to face the gravest peacetime economic crisis in Britain since 1931.

The Labour government will present an emergency programme for meeting the devaluation crisis. And on it will depend whether Parliament degenerates into a major political battle or pursues a party consideration to try to "save" England.

It was just four weeks ago when the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, announced devaluation of the pound and started chain reaction currency juggling which has left the financial world bewildered. Even government officials admit that since then nothing has been done here—either to take advantage of the devaluation of sterling or prepare for the inflationary consequences of that action.

The major concern of neutral observers and non-political publications is that the emergency programme of the government will not come close to ordering steps that appear to be called for. As one London financial writer put it: "Distinction must be drawn between what the measures will be and what they should be."

Difficult Problem

The problem facing government is a difficult one because despite the postponement of an election this year it must face one next year, probably in the spring and at least before the end of July. Since devaluation the government has taken only these steps:

1. Announced plans to raise profits taxes five per cent and threatened to limit the distribution of dividends;
2. Exhorted industry and business to make every effort to sell in the dollar market;
3. Exhorted labour to work harder and defer demands for high wages;
4. Admitted the cost of living is going up slightly immediately and more after the first of the year.—United Press.

BENELUX PACT ON UNION

Luxembourg, October 16.

The Governments of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, at a conference ending just after midnight, signed a "pre-Union agreement" laying down conditions for the period leading up to next July's projected full economic union of Benelux.

Events in the pre-Union period will give a clearer picture of the effects of devaluation, and will determine whether full economic union can be achieved at once next year, or whether certain limitations on trade and payments will be provisionally necessary, conference sources said.

Directives will be given to expert bodies studying the projected union.

Trade deficits between the countries concerned will be covered either by a credit margin agreed by the creditor country, by calling on the International Monetary Fund, or by payments in gold or convertible currencies.

On monetary and commercial policy, the protocol of the conference said that internal and external economic conditions must be a pre-condition of convertibility of the Dutch guilder and the Belgian franc.

However, if Britain should be manoeuvring toward recognition, she would be following the course of Russia and the Soviet bloc, which recognised the people's Republic without delay.

American consular officials in Peiping have been carrying on some discussions, aimed at clarifying their status so they can conduct consular functions, at least to some extent.

As for American recognition of the Communist regime, the Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, made it very clear this week that the United States favours an independent determination of its decision on whether to recognise the Peiping government.

Even if Britain should decide to grant recognition, the U.S. would follow its own course, Mr. Acheson indicated.

Truman Belief

President Truman is represented by informed officials as believing that United States relations with the Chinese Communists can be conducted indefinitely on the same basis as with Soviet Russia during the 15 years prior to 1933.

It is impossible to get direct news reports from Peiping, due to the Communist move in cutting off all communications, except to Soviet bloc correspondents.

Meanwhile, the Communist capture of Canton is beginning a new dispersal of American official representatives in China. Mr. Robert Strong, ranking U.S. envoy with the Nationalists, is under orders to transfer his headquarters from Hong Kong to Chungking.

He is expected to leave by air this week along with the Second Secretary, Mr. Robert Bondon and two Embassy clerks. Remaining in Hong Kong will be the Consul-General, Karl Rankin.

Reds' Statement

The Chinese Communists declared today that anyone recognising the Nationalists is engaging in "criminal activities."

"The liberation of Canton has rendered the political status of the remnant Kuomintang bandits even more ridiculous," a Peiping broadcast by the Reds' New China News Agency said.

"Any respectable political organization, the government of any country and the United Nations organization should no longer have relations with the bandits who have fled to Chungking, Taiwan and other places."

What a can can do

Beer as good as Barclay's is worth keeping in perfect condition — and that's exactly what a can does for it. A can also saves storage space, is a pocketable size and opens in a jiffy. What could be handier at home or out of doors?

Save space, can't break, cool quickly and are half the weight of bottles.

JEWS MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Munich, October 10. American Army authorities today tightened precautions against a possible outbreak by Landsberg's 4,000 displaced Jews when Ilse Koch, infamous "Mistress of Buchenwald," is transferred to German custody on Monday.

There are two big Jewish DP camps at Strowel, not far from the grim American military prison.

Many of the inmates may have had relatives in Buchenwald while the 42-year-old Ilse was there.

Authorities were uneasy about the reaction of these Jews and alerted U. S. military units at Landsberg and prison guards. They will form a protective cordon about the prison when the woman is given over to the Germans.

Early on Monday, she will complete a four-years allied war crime sentence and will be turned over for trial on similar charges by German authorities.

The Germans have charged her on five major counts, one of which involved the wanton shooting of 24 Jewish prisoners in 1941.

Major-General Clayton Pierce, U. S. Commander in Augsburg where the Germans try the widow of the former Buchenwald Commander, said that strict measures would be taken to prevent any demonstration either by Jews or Germans.

He conceded that there was definite possibility of trouble when Ilse Koch walks outside the protective walls of Landsberg.

He disclosed that earlier Army restrictions, which would have banned Allied reporters from seeing the transfer had been raised.

He said, however, that no German reporters or photographers would be permitted to witness the action. Allied reporters and photographers only will be permitted.—Associated Press.

SHINWELL IN TRIESTE

Trieste, October 16. Britain's War Minister, Mr. Emmanuel Shinwell, inspected Allied military outposts in Trieste today.

He arrived on Saturday after inspecting troops in Austria. He is the guest of Major-General Terence S. Airey, British Commander of Anglo-American occupation troops in Trieste.—Associated Press.

A Portable Plane

Among the fantasies on display at the Concorde Lepine (Minor Inventions Show) in Paris was this "portable airplane" presented by Gaston Amedee Mourlaque of Paris. Not relying solely on the little motor, the propeller may also be powered by the lever's Mourlaque is holding. The long rod extending to the lower left holds the flyer up when the plane is in action. The gadget has yet to be flown. (AP Photo).

Chinese Largest Group In Malaya

The proportion of locally-born Chinese and Indians resident in the Federation of Malaya and the Colony of Singapore has greatly increased since 1931.

Locally-born Chinese now number two thirds of the entire Chinese population of the two areas and for the first time the Chinese are the largest national group, exceeding the Malaysian component by more than one per cent of the whole.

These facts are revealed in the report on the 1947 census of population which has just been published. The report shows that Malaya's population increased from 1,501,206 in the 16 years between the 1931 and 1947 censuses. In 1931 the combined populations of the two territories were 4,347,704; in 1947 they were 5,848,910.

During the same period the Chinese population increased from 1,704,452 to 2,514,667, the latter figure giving them 44.70 per cent of the total population. On the other hand the Malaysian component which includes Malays and Aboriginal stocks, increased by only 613,525 to a total of 2,543,569. This gives a percentage of 43.49 of the total population.

The increase in the Indian component was smaller, the figures being 599,616 and 621,847 respectively. There were only minor changes in the other communities, including Europeans and Eurasians.

GREEK GUERRILLAS STOP OPERATIONS

London, October 16. The Greek guerrilla army tonight announced that it had ceased operations "in order to avoid the total destruction of Greece" but had not disbanded.

The announcement, made over the Free Greek Radio in a proclamation from the "Provisional Greek Government," came 24 hours before the United Nations Conciliation Commission was due to report back to Lake Success.

At the same time, the Greek General Staff in Athens alleged that the guerrilla forces—"defeated in recent battles"—were now reorganising in Albania. The guerrilla proclamation denounced the role of the "Anglo-American imperialists and their agents," the "Monarcho-Fascists," in the operations which have torn Greece internally since the end of the world war.

The guerrilla brought untold misery to the Greek people since they pushed it into a civil war three and a half years ago," it said.

The proclamation said that a peaceful solution of Greece's problems was now being sought in the United Nations "with the participation of the Soviet Union." "Athens," it added, "is speaking about amnesties and agreements, but in fact, the Monarcho-Fascist (the guerrillas) term for the Greek Government in Athens) go on persecuting (democrats) wherever they find them in Greece."

In Ruins

After declaring that the interests of the Greek people were the paramount consideration of the guerrillas, the proclamation said that the Greek people needed peace and bread.

"Greece is now in ruins and hunger reigns everywhere," it declared. But, the proclamation asserted, the "temporary cessation" of military operations did not mean that the "Provisional Greek Government and the people of Greece" renounced the fight for the rights of the Greek people.

"The Monarcho-Fascists are mistaken if they think that the struggle is ended and the Democratic Army has ceased to exist," it said.

The declaration ended with an appeal to the Greek people to be united and to continue the struggle for "peace, bread and liberty," with the assurance that all true democrats are with them and that they belong to the same camp as the "truly democratic countries and the Soviet Union, the champion of peace and democracy in the world."

The Greek General Staff said tonight that guerrilla forces which were defeated in the recent battles for the Gramineas and Vitsi Heights were now reorganising in a camp in Albania.

Captured Sergeant

This camp, the statement said, was in a wooded region near Skoumbi River, about six miles from the Southern Albanian town of Elbasan.

The existence of the camp was revealed by George Dzummas, a sergeant in the Eighth Communist Division, who entered Greece from Albania on September 24 last to gather information and carry out sabotage, the statement declared.

increased even more rapidly than the latter.

The report notes that there has been an all-round and marked improvement in the general literacy rates. This improvement was only to be expected during a period of relatively small migration, for, claims the report, the educational facilities offered in Malaya have latterly been much superior to those generally available in China or South India, and certainly to the relative areas whence the bulk of the immigrants come.

Grave Threat To U.S. Employment

Washington, October 16.

The Secretary of Commerce, Charles Sawyer, today warned that 5,000,000 men will be thrown out of jobs and thousands of small business men forced to the wall if the steel strike continues until December 1.

In a statement today, summing up the possible economic impact of the two-week-old shutdown, Mr. Sawyer asserted "sombrely" that the stoppage has reversed the upward business and employment trend and now the nation's welfare is at stake.

He forecast 2,000,000 unemployed in steel industries dependent on steel if the walk-out is not ended by November 1, and after that shutdowns in mass production industries such as autos, machinery, electric appliances, construction and metal containers. By December 1, he continued, if the strike continues, unemployment directly attributable to the strike will be approximately 5,000,000. Furthermore, it is estimated that by January 1 there will in effect be a complete shutdown in metal-consuming industries.

Concurrent with Mr. Sawyer's statement, Dr. Edwin Nourse, chairman of President Truman's council of economic advisers, told the United Press that both the steel and coal strikes will become crucial for the national economy if no progress toward settlements is made this week. He put it this way:

"If no significant progress toward settlements is made by the end of the week, the problem itself will be coming into its crucial stage," he said.—United Press.

MR. NEHRU MAKES GREAT IMPRESSION ON AMERICANS

New York, October 16.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian Prime Minister, left behind him in Washington today the profound impression in official circles that one of the most historic meetings between East and West had taken place.

Both public and private reactions to the Indian Prime Minister's four days' stay in Washington made it clear that no visit since the wartime appearances of Mr. Winston Churchill had left such a stirring impression.

President Truman spoke both publicly and privately of his personal admiration for a great public servant.

The United States Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, spoke of Mr. Nehru as an equal of the fathers of the American nation itself, such as Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson.

Washington has now settled down to a study of the statements made by the Prime Minister with a view to the detailed formulation of United States policy towards India. In his public statements the Prime Minister laid down certain basic principles of Indian foreign policy.

He made these things clear: (1) That India would not remain neutral in the event of aggression or any threat to freedom or justice.

This was not interpreted here to mean that India would be an automatic ally of the United States in what is called the cold war against Russia. But it was interpreted to mean that India's role in world affairs would not be a passive one.

It was noted that Mr. Nehru, in his address to Congress, said that aggression must be "reversed" but "the force employed must be adequate to the purpose".

India's Aim

(2) That the primary purpose of Indian policy was to raise the standard of living of the Indian people and that American aid would be welcomed both in the form of capital investment and mechanical and technological assistance.

(3) That the raising of the standard of living of India and of Asia was necessary to give the social stability which was the best safeguard against Communism.

(4) That there must be no colonial exploitation of India and that aid should be given without any condition which might involve a sacrifice of Indian sovereignty, independence and freedom.

(5) That India, without seeking it, had become the leader of Asia and that isolation had become as impossible for India in the East as for the United States in the West.

No Decisions

It can be authoritatively stated that no decisions were sought or reached on any proposals stemming from these basic promises by the Prime Minister in his talks with United States Government leaders.

A general understanding of each other's point of view and of common purposes was achieved.

Mr. Nehru did not seek to precipitate a conclusion on the many subjects affecting India which are under discussion here—the implementation of President Truman's Point Four programme for assisting in developing the under-developed areas of the world and the possibility of loans to India from the World Bank and the United States Export-Import Bank.

He did, however, succeed in creating an atmosphere in which Indian officials here will be able to discuss such proposals with American officials in greater intimacy, backed by a closer understanding of each other's general point of view.—Reuter.

American Tribute To Pandit Nehru

New York, October 16.

Something indefinable in Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru's personality made an instantaneous impact on the United States, said a letter published in the "New York Times" today.

Written by Mr. Louis Fischer, foreign correspondent and author of "Gandhi and Stalin," the letter occupied more than a column of space. Mr. Fischer said: "Mahatma Gandhi once called him (Nehru) an artist, perhaps that is the explanation."

"Nehru is not merely the Prime Minister of an important country. He is an idealist whose sympathies encircle the oppressed of the globe." —Reuter.

A man believed to be Britain's oldest working coal miner has died in his 71st year in Pontefract. He was William Smith and he had worked 60 years in the mines. Last Saturday he completed a full week's as check-weighman at the Prince of Wales mine.

Smith first went down the mines at the age of 11, working 14 hours a day for one penny an hour.—Associated Press.

T-L-F PUBLISHERS announce SPECIAL CHRISTMAS RATES FOR 1949

The Christmas gift rate for TIME, you will notice, represents a saving of from 15 to 20% under the regular subscription price. That's some saving!

LIFE International's Christmas gift rate is the same as that charged during the rest of the year. And that's still a very low rate for such a high-quality magazine. You've probably noticed yourself the many "pluses" in LIFE during the past year—the high-quality paper that makes photographs come alive; the many full-color features (very expensive to print); the special features which readers get in LIFE alone. And you may have wondered, as readers have, how LIFE brings such a wealth of information and entertainment for so little money.

The FORTUNE Gift Rates are very special indeed. There's a whopping big saving for a single gift—and more savings still on two or more. This saving-on-a-saving is something new, and should help you in selling multiple gifts.

Low prices are the best sales aids ever invented. The publishers have given you the prices. The rest is up to you!

SWEDISH CHANCE OF NEUTRALITY

Stockholm, October 16.

The Swedish Defence Minister, Mr. Alan Vought, said today that long-range atom bombers had increased Sweden's chances of remaining neutral in any new world conflict because they made her less important as a military base.

Addressing a national defence meeting in Strängnäs, near Stockholm, Mr. Vought said: "Now that the United States is using the B-36 bomber, it is assumed that the atom bomb—as distinct from earlier means of destruction—must be carried to any enemy from bases in the United States."

"Only the American continent is considered a sufficiently remote and deep base for this valuable weapon."—Reuter.

The United States Air Force's new X-4, designed to explore flight characteristics of the high sub-sonic zone, flies over the Muroc Air Force Base, in the State of California, on the Pacific coast of the United States. The small flying-wing type research plane, manufactured by Northrop Aircraft, Inc., of Hawthorne, California, is one of the smallest planes ever built for the Air Force. It measures approximately 25 feet from wing tip to wing tip, and is 20 feet long. The unusual tail consists only of a vertical stabilizer and rudder; there is no horizontal stabilizer or elevator assembly. "Elefons," developed by Northrop for use on their large Flying Wing bombers, serve both as elevators and ailerons. The plane is powered by twin gas-turbine engines. The fourth in a series of "X" planes ordered by the Air Force, the X-4 will continue research pioneered by the X-1, manufactured by Bell Aircraft of Buffalo, New York, in Eastern United States. The X-1 was the first plane to fly faster than the speed of sound.

COMMUNISM LOSES GROUND IN JAPAN

Tokyo, October 16.

The Japanese Communists are losing ground and there are many indications that the Socialists may be working their way back up toward first place position which now is held by the ultra-Conservative Democratic-Liberal Party.

In the recent important election of members to the prefectural farmland committees, the Japanese Reds had only two victorious candidates.

The Socialists elected 80 of their candidates—the biggest victory for any single party in the race to place representatives in 458 positions.

The Democratic-Liberals, now the leading party in Japan, succeeded in electing only 53 candidates carrying their banner. The importance of the results, according to diplomatic observers, lies in the gains of the Socialists and the losses of the Communists.

The trend in Japanese politics, if it continues, may cause some major changes in the Diet (National Legislative Assembly) when the next general election is held. The Socialists are demanding an election in the spring of 1950.

The Socialists rank in third place but their party is badly off in the all-important House of representatives of the Diet. They have 48 members.

Democrats Split

The Democrats with 70 seats are in second place but their party is badly split and given little chance of making a good showing if an election is held anytime soon.

The Democratic-Liberal Party, headed by Premier Shigeru Yoshida, is the top party, and the majority party in the Diet. It has 269 seats.

The significance of the prefectural farmland committee voting is that it may reflect a general decline of Communist popularity and a rise in the stock of the Socialists.

The pact would largely meaningless without the North American continent in it, he said. Associated Press.

Deep Crisis In Bulgaria, Belgrade Says

Belgrade, October 16.

A Yugoslav Foreign Office official wrote today that Bulgaria was passing through a deep crisis and that the Cominform was about to stage another treason trial with Trajano Kostov, former Bulgarian Deputy Premier, now under arrest, as chief defendant.

Mass arrests had been carried out by the Bulgarian security police, it was alleged by the official, Evan Kariavanov, Director of the Institute for International Policy at the Foreign Ministry, in the Yugoslav Communist Party newspaper, "Borba."

The object of the coming trial was to intimidate malcontents, including an enormous mass of peasants, and also Tito sympathisers of which there is no small number.

Kariavanov said that "the latest performance in the Cominform theatre" had been postponed because the chief actor, unlike the famous Rajk, still did not know his part well enough.

He said that the second performance of the "burlesque in Sofia" will be more interesting than the Budapest premiere because there is much richer material.

Kostov, he wrote, was in fact a "Trotskyist" and a spy, and this had been well known to the Yugoslavs, who had been warning the Bulgarian Communist Party about it.

Kostov, relieved of his Government posts in April, was arrested in July under the section of the Penal Code dealing with "economic sabotage."

The penalty for this crime is death or life imprisonment.

"All those who sympathise with Tito's Yugoslavia will be connected with the monstrous Sofia trial and there is no small number of these," Kariavanov said.

They would be accused of everything.

Policy Unpopular

He alleged that the Cominform-inspired policy of the Bulgarian Government was thoroughly unpopular and had led to a steep crisis, agricultural, industrial and financial.

Petro Kunin, Bulgaria's Finance Minister, had been arrested, Stephan Tomichev, the Minister of Railroads, had been removed and the chief of the Railroad Directorate arrested.

The great opposition to the Government was among the transport workers, Kariavanov alleged, and a special directorate had been formed "to knock a bit of sense into them."

The Bulgarian Government had allegedly asked Russia to send special instructors.

Among other signs of crisis in Bulgaria, Kariavanov said, was discontent among the workers.

Miners, he claimed, were fleeing to their villages where they could get more bread.

The Government's "middle-headed policy" had alienated the majority of the poor and middle peasants who had ceased carrying out the sowing plan. This resulted in a dearth of wheat this year and forced Bulgarian leaders to borrow 160,000 tons from Russia.

Verge Of Collapse

"This policy has led Bulgaria to the verge of collapse, and the trial of Kostov is an attempt to justify the position," Kariavanov said.

Eight more members of the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party, Kariavanov added, were at present in prison, in addition to Kostov and his brother-in-law, Topenchikov.

Komon Georgiev, former Premier and now Minister for the Five-Year Plan, was also declared by political quarters to be in contact with foreign information quarters and Kostov was only executing Georgiev's orders.

All these, Kariavanov said, were known as suspects that were allowed for other reasons to occupy the highest posts in the State.—Reuter.

Haganah Man On A Grave Charge

Tel Aviv, October 16.

Lieutenant Colonel Isser Beer, former intelligence chief of the Jewish Defence Force, the Haganah, today pleaded not guilty to the manslaughter of Captain Meir Tubbansky, who was shot as a spy on June 30 last year and later declared to be innocent.

Captain Tubbansky was executed by a firing squad after being sentenced by a summary court-martial, whose members included Colonel Beer, for alleged espionage during the shelling of Tel Aviv's District Court on June 19, 1948.

After months of investigation, the Israeli Premier, Mr. David Ben Gurion, declared the sentence "a deplorable miscarriage of justice." Colonel Beer's trial before Tel Aviv's District Court opened this morning. "I am very sorry indeed," he said, "to see the accused, who I believed acted in good faith, thinking that he was performing his duty," said the Attorney General, Yisroel Shapiro.—Reuter.

SHELLS FALL IN SAIGON

London, October 16.

New Delhi Radio reported tonight that Saigon, the principal port and capital of Cochinchina, was shelled last night by Vietminh forces (Indo-Chinese autonomists) who are in conflict with the French-sponsored new State of Vietnam.

A few shells fell near a French warship, the report added. Some casualties were caused.—Reuter.

BELGRADE DESIRES PEACE

Belgrade, October 16.

The Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Edvard Kardelj, today expressed his country's desire to come to a "peaceful" settlement with Russia but reiterated its firm determination not to yield to "threats and pressure."

The position was outlined in Belgrade for the first time in articles given prominence in the official press to replies that M. Kardelj—now attending the United Nations General Assembly in New York—gave to a representative of the Egyptian newspaper, "Akbar el Jom," on October 6.

Since the answers were given, the 18-month-old cold war between Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia and the Russian-dominated Cominform has increased in intensity not only in the Councils

CLASH INEVITABLE IN JAVA, ACCORDING TO JOGJAKARTA SULTAN

Batavia, October 16.

The Republican Minister of Defence said today that he fears that the uneasy U.N. truce with the Dutch will blow up in East Java, and spread open warfare throughout Java and Sumatra. Sultan Hamengku Buwono of Jogjakarta made this statement on his return to the Republican capital from Batavia, where he conferred during the past few days with the Dutch High Commissioner of the Crown, H. J. Lovink.

The Sultan said: "The rapidly deteriorating situation in East Java is full of explosive possibilities and if the Dutch continue to insist on their position, an armed clash is not only inevitable but will soon spread to the whole of Java and Sumatra."

He referred to the trouble the Dutch and Republicans are having to get along in the area where the two armies are intermingled. Earlier, the Dutch unofficially accused the Republicans of trying to surround Netherlands Army outposts to better the Republican military position. The Republicans accused the Dutch of arming Republican soldiers and arresting Republican civil servants.

Such actions, by either side, were outlawed in the cease hostilities agreement of early August. Under it differences were to be settled through a local joint board with the help of United Nations military observers.

The Sultan said: "While the situation in East Java is most acute of all, incidents of a similar nature are in evidence over other areas of Java and Sumatra."

An official communique of the Dutch government in Batavia expressed astonishment at the statement.

According to the communique, the Sultan's statement is a violation of the cease fire manual. By accepting the manual, the parties agreed to "refrain from radio broadcasts, press reports or any form of propaganda aimed at challenging or alarming the armed forces or civilians of the other party," the communique stated. It added that the Dutch authorities are considering what steps should be taken.

Refugees From Central Java

Streams of refugees from Central Java areas, where Dutch troops have been withdrawn, arrived today at Sourabaya and others centres where the Dutch Army is in force, usually reliable Dutch sources said here tonight.

The refugees were said to consist mainly of Indonesian policemen, civil servants and their families, and Chinese who feared to remain in towns occupied by Republican troops.

There was no official confirmation tonight of reports that guerrillas had looted and fired houses in the areas evacuated by the Dutch.

The Netherlands Government expected to grant sovereignty to Indonesia on December 15 this year. In its session on Monday the Dutch Cabinet will decide on that date, an informed source at The Hague said.

November 1 has been set as a target for ending the round table conference and within six weeks after that date the agreements reached must be ratified, according to a decision taken some months ago.—Associated Press and Reuter.

Highly unsettled labour conditions forced new cut-backs in business and industry this week.

While there were only a few cases of slower activity due to an actual shortage of steel or coal, it was a case of general belt tightening all along the business front in preparation for anything that might develop from the prolonged labour crisis.

Virtually all major barometers of business and finance dipped a trifle or held about even with levities established last week, the first in which full effects of the twin walk-outs in coal and steel could be measured.

Total industrial production this week was less than last week despite a tiny improvement in output of steel and coal. Retail trade slipped badly in areas where a sizeable portion of the population is either on strike or has been affected by some phase of the present labour troubles.

Primary textile markets were fairly busy, but there were reports of lessened forward buying in most all lines. This type of buying, principally to build up depleted inventories in anticipation of a big Christmas business, has been one of the main props under the business structure in recent weeks.

And topping it all off was an unknown amount of damage to business sentiment by fears, justified or not, that the country may be in for a long siege of industrial strife.

Wall Street Opinion

The staggering loss of millions of dollars a day in wages by more than a million strikers, the loss of more than one and one-quarter million tons of steel and more than 10,000,000 tons of soft coal weekly is only part of the economic consequences of the current strikes. The effect on the overall economy is somewhat like a pebble dropped in a quiet pool spreading its impulses in all directions.

Even the optimistic New York stock market appeared less confident that industry would escape any serious setback. After rising to new highs for the year early in the week, prices setled down when the Columbus Day holiday and sellers held the upper hand most of the time thereafter.

Retail trade declines ranged from five to 10 per cent in the South and Mid-west, six to nine on the Pacific Coast and four to eight in the Middle Atlantic and Eastern States.

Business failures this week were the highest in around a month.

The cumulative effects of the small cutbacks in major lines of industry showed up clearly in electric power production which fell behind a year ago for the first time since August, 1946.

Bank Clearings Lower

Steel production was but a shadow of its normal pattern at this time of year but showed a tiny bit of recovery from the initial shock of the work stoppage in the industry last week.

Freight carloadings continued to drop from the lack of coal movement and a general decline in the mass movement of goods.

Automobile production was less affected by steel and coal strikes than the general run of business operations but here too, there were minor dislocations.

Curtailed business in stores and the general tendency to contract in other fields was reflected in lower bank clearings, demand deposits and money in circulation.

The changes were generally small, however, and were partially offset by another rise in business loans by banks, the ninth increase in a row.—Associated Press.

U.S. Honour For Cosmos Co.

Cosmos Aerated Water Co. (H.K.) Ltd., bottlers of "Cosmos" beverages, has attained another honour in the U.S.A. It gained wide recognition in the bottling industry field when it was featured in a whole page of the "Squirt Reporter," a well-known publication in Beverly Hills, California.

Mr. Hubert G. H. Wong is President and General Manager of company, which has gone through hazardous times since it was founded in Manila in 1918 by the late Mr. Wong Ning, father of the two brothers who now operate the branches in Hong Kong and Manila, respectively.

During World War II, the plant in Manila was taken over by the Japanese, and Wong Ning was imprisoned during the Japanese occupation. He died a few months before liberation. After liberation the plant was handed to the ground by fire, and his sons undertook the reorganization and rehabilitation of the present bottling factories.

METAL INDUSTRY THREATENED

Cleveland, October 16. The metal-working industry is threatened with creeping paralysis as a result of the steel and coal strikes, the magazine Steel says.

While comparatively new fabricators have curtailed operations thus far for the lack of supplies, an unprecedented contraction of activities is forecast for next month unless the labour disputes are settled, Steel observes.

The magazine said that by the end of this month, consumers' inventories will begin to evaporate or become too unbalanced to permit economical production in many plants.—Associated Press.

Notice To Consignees

Raw Cotton Prices Up

Manchester, October 17. The Raw Cotton Commission announced today higher selling prices to British mill owners as a result of rises in British cotton prices at Alexandria.

The increases were: Brazilian and East African cotton, up one farthing to a half-penny per pound. Egyptian varieties, up by twopenny to 2 1/2d. Sudan and West Indian types, up twopenny.—Associated Press.

AMERICAN SHIPPING POSITION

Washington, October 16. Senator Owen Brewster (Republican) today called activity in the Swedish and German shipping industries "disquieting."

He contended that the United States is "financing itself out of existence in the commercial shipping field" and said the U.S. had "rendered obsolete 500 ships of the American merchant marine" by financing in Britain what country's ship-building industry.

Senator Brewster also charged the United States with "fostering a policy of starvation" by failing to recognize Franco Spain.

Senator Brewster hinted that he had learned that the Spanish Loyalist government in exile might move soon to regain power.

He asked the U.S. people to "consider well the implication of our current foreign policy" toward Spain.

He claimed that the Spanish government in exile took a US$500,000,000 war chest with it when it left home.

In September, Senator Brewster made a trip to Europe that included talks with General Francisco Franco in Madrid.—United Press.

Government Buying In Pakistan

Karachi, October 16. Jute and cotton in Pakistan will now be purchased by the Government and not by private enterprise.

Finance will be provided by the proposed National Bank of Pakistan, which will soon come into existence.

The ordinance which sets up a semi-official National Bank of Pakistan with an authorized capital of 60,000,000 Rupees, is reported to be in course of preparation.

A promoters' company, established eight months ago, has completed all space work and the National Bank will start its work initially with five offices in cotton and jute areas.

The Government's share in the proposed National Bank would be 25 per cent.—Associated Press.

NEW BANK POST

Washington, October 16. The International Bank today announced the appointment of Walter Hill of the United Kingdom as special representative in charge of the Bank's office here.

The Bank also announced the closing of its offices in the Hague and Copenhagen, which have been supervising the use of loans made to those two countries.

Their functions are being transferred to Paris, with Andrew Detrichatich, now of the Hague, in charge, and Andre F. Goelot, now of Copenhagen, as assistant.

Mr. Hill succeeds J. Grant Forbes, who has reached the Bank's retirement age.—United Press.
